Defendant.

No.

CIV-01 1403 1

LESLIE C. SMITH
WILLIAM W. DEATON

NOTICE OF REMOVAL

Defendant Adecco Employment Services, Inc. ("Adecco"), hereby gives notice of the removal to this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1441, of the above-captioned action, formerly pending in the District Court for the Second Judicial District, County of Bernalillo, State of New Mexico, as No. CV-200100718. In support thereof, Adecco states as follows:

1. On January 31, 2001, Plaintiff Sally C. Olinger filed a civil complaint against Adecco in the Second Judicial District Court for the State of New Mexico entitled Sally C. Olinger v. Adecco Employment Services, Inc., d/b/a Adecco, a Delaware corporation, no. CV-200100718. True and correct copies of the documents served by Plaintiff in this matter are attached hereto as Group Exhibit A.

2. The complaint alleges that Adecco terminated Plaintiff's employment on the basis of her age, in violation of the New Mexico Human Rights Act and that as a result Plaintiff suffered loss of income (back pay and front pay), employment benefits, "other pecuniary losses," and emotional distress. Complaint, ¶¶ 27, 28, 29. The Complaint also seeks attorneys' fees, costs, prejudgment and post-judgment interest, “and for such other and further relief as the Court deems appropriate.”

3. This Court has jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1332 and 1441. There is complete diversity of citizenship as to all parties, and the amount in controversy exceeds the sum of $75,000, exclusive of interest and costs.

4. Defendant has, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. ¶ 1446(a), attached hereto, as Group Exhibit A, all the state court process, pleadings and orders served upon it. This Notice of Removal is filed within 30 days after receipt by Adecco of a copy of “an amended pleading motion, order or other paper from which it may first be ascertained that the case is one which is or has become removeable” in compliance with 28 U.S.C. § 1446(b). See transcript of Deposition of Sally Olinger, at 206-07, attached hereto as Exhibit B.

Complete Diversity of Citizenship Exists

5. Plaintiff Sally C. Olinger is a resident of Albuquerque, Bernalillo County, New Mexico. Complaint, ¶ 1.

6. Defendant Adecco is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business in Melville, New York. Complaint, ¶ 2.

7. Thus, there is complete diversity of citizenship between all parties hereto.

The Amount in Controversy Requirement is Satisfied

8. To confer subject matter jurisdiction on this Court based on diversity of citizenship, the amount in controversy must exceed the sum or value of $75,000, exclusive of interest and costs. 28 U.S.C. § 1332(a), as amended. Where a complaint does not contain dispositive allegations of the amount in controversy, the jurisdictional amount is determined by the allegations in the underlying complaint. See, e.g., Laughlin v. K-Mart Corp., 50 F.3d 871, 873 (10th Cir. 1995). Calculations of the amount in controversy includes both compensatory and punitive damages. See, e.g., Bell v. Preferred Life Assur. Soc. of Montgomery, Alabama, 320 U.S. 238, 240 (1943); Watson v. Blankenship, 20 F.3d 383, 386 (10th Cir. 1994).

9. Plaintiff seeks lost back and front pay, employment benefits, emotional distress damages, and unspecified “other compensatory damages.” Complaint, ¶ 22. Plaintiff also seeks an award of attorneys’ fees. Id., ¶ 23. Although Adecco served an Interrogatory on Plaintiff, asking her if she was seeking more than $75,000 in damages in this case, Plaintiff refused to commit, one way or another, stating “Final computation of Damages have not been completed at this time.” At her deposition, however, Plaintiff answered the following questions as follows:

Q: As you sit here today, do you think your damages – that your emotional distress is worth less than $75,000?

A: No.

Q: As you sit here today, do you think your damages, what you have suffered, is worth less than $75,000?

A: No.

Sally Olinger Dep., at 206-07, attached hereto as Exhibit B. Thus, Plaintiff now admits that there is more than $75,000 in controversy in the present case. The transcript of Plaintiff’s deposition is an “other paper from which it may first be ascertained” that the case is or has become removable. Huffman v. Saul Holdings Limited Partnership, 194 F.3d 1072, 1078 (10th Cir. 1999) (adopting majority rule that testimony during deposition constitutes an “other paper” within the meaning of 1446(b)); see also, S.W.S. Erectors, Inc. v. Infax, 72 F.3d 489, 494 (5th Cir. 1996) (deposition constituted a new paper or event that changed the facts regarding the removableness of the case).

10. Because the amount in controversy requirement is plainly met here, and, as shown above, there is complete diversity of citizenship between the parties, and this notice is being filed within a year after the commencement of this action, removal of this case to this Court is appropriate. Cf. O'Bryan v. Chandler, 496 F.2d 403 (10th Cir.) (noting that § 1446 (b) authorizes second petitions for removal), cert. denied, 419 U.S. 986 (1974).

WHEREFORE, because there is complete diversity of citizenship between the parties and the amount in controversy exclusive of interest and costs is in excess of $75,000, Defendant Adecco Employment Services, Inc. respectfully requests this honorable Court to assume full jurisdiction over this action as provided by law.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER

THIS MATTER comes before the Court on Plaintiff's Motion to Remand (Docket No. 9). Having reviewed the pleadings filed in this case and the applicable law, I conclude that I lack subject matter jurisdiction and must remand this case to the Second Judicial District Court, County of Bernalillo, State of New Mexico.

Background

On January 31, 2001, Plaintiff filed her complaint in the Second Judicial District Court, County of Bernalillo, State of New Mexico, asserting claims for age discrimination under the New Mexico Human Rights Act. Plaintiff requested various types of damages, in an unspecified amount.

On March 1, 2001, Defendant filed its notice of removal under 28 U.S.C. § 1441. This notice alleges that it was filed within thirty (30) days of receipt by Defendant of a copy of the complaint, in compliance with 28 U.S.C. § 1446(b). The notice also states that complete diversity of citizenship exists and that this Court has diversity jurisdiction over this case.

In the notice of removal, Defendant notes the jurisdictional requirement of $75,000, and states that because Plaintiff seeks lost front and back pay, employment benefits, emotional distress damages, and unspecified “other compensatory damages,” as well as attorneys’ fees, “there is obviously more than $75,000 in controversy in the present case.” (Not. of Rem. at ¶ 9). In support of this conclusion, Defendant lists several recent employment cases, wherein damages of more than $75,000 were awarded. Beyond the basic characterization of these “employment cases,” and a mention of the damages awarded in each, Defendant gives no factual basis to connect the cited cases to this case. Defendant then makes the conclusory statement that “the amount in controversy requirement is plainly met.” Id. at ¶ 10.

Legal Standards

When a case is removed, it is the defendant’s burden to establish the amount in controversy. Laughlin v. Kmart Corp., 50 F.3d 871, 873 (10th Cir. (1995). Federal court jurisdiction is to be strictly construed. See Shamrock Oil & Gas Corp. v. Sheets, 313 U.S. 100, 108 (1941). There is a presumption against removal jurisdiction. Laughlin at 873. The amount in controversy is ordinarily determined by the allegations of the complaint, or, where they are not dispositive, by the allegations in the notice of removal. Id. When the face of the complaint does not affirmatively establish the requisite amount in controversy, the burden is on the removing party to set forth, in the notice of removal itself, underlying facts supporting the assertion that the minimum jurisdictional amount for diversity jurisdiction exists. Id. The notice of removal must contain a short and plain statement of the grounds for removal, 28 U.S.C. § 1446(a), and must establish the requisite amount in controversy at the time of removal by a preponderance of the evidence. Barber v. Albertsons, Inc., 935 F. Supp 1188, 1190 (N.D.Ok. 1996).

Defendant contends that the notice of removal's recitation of recent employment cases, in which verdicts of more than $75,000 were awarded, supports its assertion that the jurisdictional requirement has been met here. In making this argument, Defendant partially relies upon the personal injury automobile accident case of Marrujo v. Swift Transportation Co., Inc., CIV No. 98-122 (D. N.M. Aug. 6, 1999) (mem.). In that case defendant analogized between plaintiff's alleged personal injuries and jury verdicts in cases with similar alleged personal injuries. In Marrujo, Judge Black held that such an analogy was sufficient, stating: "It appears to the Court that [Defendant] had a factual basis upon which to make such an assertion [of removal jurisdiction], and it set out those facts in the Notice of Removal." Id. It is in this material respect that the Marrujo case is distinguishable from this case: the Marrujo defendant analogized to jury verdicts in other vehicular accident cases with similar physical injuries, providing a factual basis for comparison and analogy. Here, although Defendant cites to other cases that awarded damages for lost income and the like, Defendant gives the Court no underlying factual basis upon which it could conclude that the cited cases are indeed analogous to this case, except that they are all employment cases, seeking the usual types of damages in employment cases. Specifically, Defendant provides no factual basis as to any supposed similarity in lost compensation, pay, benefits, length of employment or circumstances of termination¹. Without any underlying facts, the Court can only speculate as to how similar or analogous the cited employment cases are to this case. By simply citing to these other cases, Defendant has not met its burden under Laughlin.

Conclusion

The “amount in controversy” involves an inquiry into what the Plaintiff potentially stands to gain from a lawsuit, or what the Defendant’s possible exposure to liability may be. See 15 MOORE’S FEDERAL PRACTICE, § 102.109[1] (3d ed. 2000); Carnahan v. Southern Pacific R.R. Transp. Co., 914 F. Supp. 1430 (E.D. Tex. 1995). Based on the contents of the complaint and the notice of removal, the Court finds no underlying facts that would support a conclusion that this case involves a dispute of $75,000 or more. All we know from these two pleadings is that Plaintiff claims that she was dismissed for reasons related to her age and that she claims damages typical to this type of lawsuit.

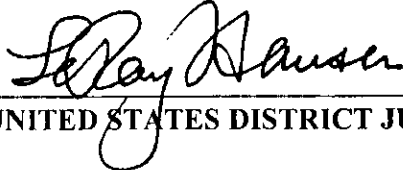

Defendant’s citing the Court to employment cases that awarded typical categories of damages in amounts over $75,000 does not satisfy its burden to establish that Plaintiff has the potential to gain $75,000 or more from this lawsuit. If this approach were sufficient, defendants could always meet the burden, because for virtually every type of case, one could cite other cases where the same categories of damages have been awarded in excess of $75,000. This Court is bound by the Tenth Circuit precedent in the Laughlin case. That precedent requires a stated factual basis upon which this Court can conclude that the minimum jurisdictional amount for diversity jurisdiction exists. This requirement must be met on a case-by-case basis, with facts presented to the Court that are specific to that case. Defendant has not met this requirement.

WHEREFORE, for the reasons stated above, Plaintiff's Motion to Remand shall be granted, and this case shall be remanded to the Second Judicial District Court, County of Bernalillo, State of New Mexico.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
